

Manual: Truck Responsible

Welcome as the Truck Responsible!

Your tasks as truck responsible are:

1. To pick up and drop off luggage, Femøists, and children at the ferry. The week responsible will know if anyone is arriving outside the regular Saturday 14:50 ferry arrival.
2. To pick up goods from the ferry and other vendors on the island. (See the map for the locations of the various spots on the island.) Both food and beverages are delivered here. Returnable containers may be returned during pickup. IMPORTANT – the trailer for Dagrofa must be prepared for return with the ferry. The kitchen responsible knows the times.
3. To regularly replace cooling elements between the camp and the storage barn.
4. To collect food supplies from the barn... the time is agreed upon with the kitchen responsible, who must come along on the trip. This is usually a morning task, as there may be ingredients needed for lunch.
5. To drive to the barn for the bar responsible, possibly at the same time as food pickup, but during the larger weeks, this will typically be a separate afternoon trip together with the bar responsables.
6. To drive children and child activists on excursions when agreed, and pick them up again.

General information about the truck:

- Oil and water must be checked every week – for example, Saturday morning before handing over the truck to the next week's team. The tires may also need air – this can be arranged with the blacksmith.
- The truck is primarily a tool for transporting goods.
- During pre-camp and after-camp weeks, it's used to transport equipment to and from the barn.
- During regular weeks, it's used to transport luggage to and from the harbor, as well as food and beverages.
- Additionally, the truck is used to transport Femøists and children around the island. Be especially cautious when transporting people in the truck bed:
  - There is no insurance coverage – not even the driver's liability insurance – for transporting people in the truck bed. It's up to each driver to decide what she feels comfortable and safe doing.
  - It's a good idea to agree on how many adults should be present to supervise children riding in the bed.

- The truck only starts moving once everyone is seated. Consider agreeing on a "knock signal" to clearly let the driver know when everyone is seated and ready to go.
- When the truck returns loaded with goods, gas bottles, cooling elements, or speakers for the camp, it can be a good idea to inform the week's Femøists that a single honk of the horn signals that help is welcome for unloading.
- It goes without saying: the driver must be sober!
- The "Truck Handover Form" must be filled out and handed to the next week's truck coordinator.

If something happens:

- If something happens on the island – like a flat tire or minor repairs – the blacksmith can often help.
- For more serious issues: call the rental company to inform them and agree on next steps.
- We have used the workshop Jens E Biler in Maribo, phone: 54781888, for repairs beyond what the blacksmith can handle. Inform the rental company – they may also need to cover the bill!
- If something happens on the mainland, the rental agreement includes a roadside assistance subscription.

Check the documents in the vehicle.
